

"RAISIN TROUBLE" /

Synopsis

Jack and Lillian, a happily married couple, live together with Lillian's brother, Charley, whose chief occupation seemed to be making homebrew.

Searching for an escaped lunatic, the police invade the house, leaving the family a very narrow margin of time in which to hide the incriminating bottles. The search proving fruitless, the officers of the law leave. The household retires for the night and then the fun begins. There are many complications, caused by the fact that they have reason to believe that the lunatic is in the house. Popping corks, a wandering cat and some escaped toy balloons all play their part in adding to the family's woes, which reach their culmination when a particularly boisterous outbreak brings back the cops on the run, who discover their nefarious activities and drag them away, vainly protesting, to tell their story to the county judge.

"RAISIN TROUBLE"

Synopsis

Jack and Lillian, a happily married couple, live together with Lillian's brother, Charley, whose chief occupation seemed to be making homebrew.

Searching for an escaped lunatic, the police invade the house, leaving the family a very narrow margin of time in which to hide the incriminating bottles. The search proving fruitless, the officers of the law leave. The household retires for the night and then the fun begins. There are many complications, caused by the fact that they have reason to believe that the lunatic is in the house. Popping corks, a wandering cat and some escaped toy balloons all play their part in adding to the family's woes, which reach their culmination when a particularly boisterous outbreak brings back the cops on the run, who discover their nefarious activities and drag them away, vainly protesting, to tell their story to the county judge.

"RAISIN TROUBLE"

Synopsis

Jack and Lillian, a happily married couple, live together with Lillian's brother, Charley, whose chief occupation seemed to be making homebrew.

Searching for an escaped lunatic, the police invade the house, leaving the family a very narrow margin of time in which to hide the incriminating bottles. The search proving fruitless, the officers of the law leave. The household retires for the night and then the fun begins. There are many complications, caused by the fact that they have reason to believe that the lunatic is in the house. Popping corks, a wandering cat and some escaped toy balloons all play their part in adding to the family's woes, which reach their culmination when a particularly boisterous outbreak brings back the cops on the run, who discover their nefarious activities and drag them away, vainly protesting, to tell their story to the county judge.

Oct 8 - 1932

This document is from the Library of Congress
“Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection,
1912-1977”

Collections Summary:

The Motion Picture Copyright Descriptions Collection, Class L and Class M, consists of forms, abstracts, plot summaries, dialogue and continuity scripts, press kits, publicity and other material, submitted for the purpose of enabling descriptive cataloging for motion picture photoplays registered with the United States Copyright Office under Class L and Class M from 1912-1977.

Class L Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi020004>

Class M Finding Aid:

<https://hdl.loc.gov/loc.mbrsmi/eadmbrsmi.mi021002>

National Audio-Visual Conservation Center
The Library of Congress